

“The great wines of California are laying in wait in the transverse valleys.”

—Andre Tchelistcheff, Winemaking Legend

TOLOSA

A Place of Extraordinary Potential

Nestled amongst the northwest to southeast-running volcanic hills of San Luis Obispo County, Edna Valley is the frontier for the most complex cool-climate varietals in California.

- The transverse valley is an extension of the sea, with a funnel leading past Morro Bay.
- Pacific coastal fog and winds make this the coldest appellation in California.
- Exceptional Pinot Noir and Chardonnay that are purest expressions of this remarkable terroir.

Terroirs with Ancient Advantages

Truly distinguished wines convey a complexity that arises from soils 100 million years in the making.

- Tolosa's Estate Vineyard, Edna Ranch, offers myriad microclimates and over 60 soil types encapsulating a remarkable spectrum of terroirs.
- Ancient sea bed, challenging calcium-rich soils, and warm days and cool nights inspire acidity driven wines with distinctive character.
- Human history of Edna Valley is rich and varied, including the Franciscans of Mission San Luis Obispo de Tolosa who made some of the first wines of distinction in California.

Edna Ranch, Edna Valley

Poletti

- Backs up to the Santa Lucia Mountains of the Pacific Coast Range.
- Site of some of our most prized Chardonnay grapes.
- Chardonnay from Tepesquet block lends tropical aromas and flavors to our wines.

Hollister

- Vines are the closest of the Edna Ranch to the Pacific Ocean.
- Includes Pinot Noir clones from historic HMR vineyard in the Adelaida District of Paso Robles.
- Challenges of hillside farming and rocky soils create intriguing and complex wines.

Salaal

- Syrah and Grenache for our cool climate Syrah-based wines.
- Well drained soils border West Corral de Piedra Creek.
- This Grenache adds intense aromas to our Rhône-Style blend.

Monighetti

- The Tolosa winery is in the heart of this portion of Edna Ranch.
- First part of our vineyard to receive cooling Pacific winds from Morro Bay.
- These blocks have produced some of our most fruit forward, concentrated wines.

Robin Baggett, Vintner

Robin spent 40 years in the Edna Valley pursuing his passion for world-class Pinot Noirs. He also founded Alpha Omega in Napa.

- Having graduated from Cal Poly in 1973, he knew the area. He bought a historic ranch in the valley and began running cattle, but the cold Pacific wind and limestone soils made him realize he was on a different kind of frontier – one for world-class cool-climate Pinot Noir and Chardonnay. Being in a region with a grape-growing history that stretches back to the 18th century, when Franciscans at Mission San Luis Obispo de Tolosa produced some of California's first wines of distinction, planting wine grapes was a natural choice. Robin and his partner Bob Schiebelhut began planting vineyards in 1988, adding several other historic family ranches in the valley over time. Together with Jim Efid, now retired, they founded Tolosa in 1998. Robin's passion for wine making was born, and his wine journey began.
